Robert Sendacki

Co-Founder and CEO
MakoLab Consulting

Robert Sendacki is an experienced practitioner who has been merging the worlds of business and IT for more than twenty-five years. An expert in lean methodologies and leader of digital, process and human transformation projects and programmes, he gained his experience in consulting and technology organisations like Accenture and PwC, service providers, including ING Nationale-Nederlanden and mBank, and manufacturing companies.

At present, he is responsible for MakoLab Consulting, which supports organisations as they develop their high-value business opportunities and throughout their change journey, from identifying potential to deploying what are often innovative solutions.
