Sören Babra
CEO
Payair Technologies

A fintech and payments visionary who identified the convergence of mobile technology and finance before most, Sören has built his career on deep relationships with people and technology alike. As the founder and CEO of Payair Technologies, Mastercard's first Platinum partner, he is a respected payments guru with a deep understanding of the banking industries. He is known for his people-first approach and thrives on collaboration, building partnerships with payment scheme providers and financial institutions right around the globe.
